

BRAD PATRICK

Brad Patrick's 40+ years with Southern have showcased his perseverance, growth and unparalleled dedication. Brad began his career at Laurelton Court in 1978 as a grounds technician. Over two decades, he meticulously honed his expertise, rising through the ranks to become an engineer.

This passion led him to our Corporate team in 2001, where he has held many roles, ultimately bringing him to his current position as Vice President of Physical Asset Operations. Brad has been the driving force behind numerous large-scale projects and initiatives throughout his tenure, demonstrating a deep understanding of Southern's physical asset.

Brad wasn't always the confident force of nature we know him to be today, but he took every opportunity to learn, and his confidence grew along with his knowledge. In short, Brad's years of unwavering dedication have shaped our organization. There's no place like Southern, and we couldn't be more proud or grateful that Brad has chosen to make his career here, with us.
